Re: Docket 94-102
Ex parte communication pursuant to Section 1.1206.

Dear Ms. Dortch :

The following representatives of the National Emergency Number Association (“NENA”) met on Monday, March 12 and Thursday, March 15, 2007 with Commissioners Adelstein and Tate on the first day and with Chairman Martin and Commissioners Copps and McDowell on the second day.

President Jason Barbour
First Vice President Ron Bonneau
Immediate Past President David Jones
Government Affairs Director Patrick Halley
James Hobson, as counsel

During the meetings, we distributed a map showing that some 85% of the U.S. population but only 58 per cent of its counties are reached by enhanced 9-1-1 wireless access. Both indices, however, have increased by more than 10% over the past year.

MILLER & VAN EATON, P.L.L.C.

We discussed the difficulties in resolving disputes in the states over surcharging of prepaid wireless service as well as what NENA believes to be the slow pace of the states in legislating requirements for locating 9-1-1 callers whose communications are processed through PBXs and other multi-line telephone systems ("MLTS"). Concerning VOIP service, we discussed pending issues in the Further NPRM in Docket 05-0196 such as auto-location of nomadic and mobile callers, as well as the state of compliance of the industry in routing calls to the appropriate PSAP.

Please direct any questions to the undersigned.

Sincerely,

James R. Hobson
